Fertilizers

WE have closed down our Oil Mill for the present season, but will continue to buy seed for cash, or exchange Cotton Seed Meal or Fertilizers for In comparing the value of potton seed meal and the whole seed as ferfor a variety of reasons, of which the chief are the following: 1. The furze of hull constitute very serious obstacles to the access both of the moisture, which promotes decay, and of the rootlets seeking for nourishment. It thus happens that when the seed is used in such a manner, that spronting fails to remove these obstacles. It may lie in the soil for a twelve month, with little or no change; we shall find the hull almost intact, with a black, shrunken kernel inside, enclosing all the soil ingredients, safe from the demands of the growing crop. All that it does the first season is to stimulate the soil by gases formed in fermentation, while the most important portion has lain idle, and failed to bear its own interest. This evil is enhanced by-2d. The oiliness of the seed which materially obstructs decay, the kernel being, as it were, 'put up in oil', like sardines or olives inside its hull." Continuing, he says: "It is not enough that the soil ingredients 'te present'; they must be in the right condition and be put in the right place. Manure, to be profitable, must be capable of being readily mixed with the soil around and beneath the plant. The former condition requires rapid and complete decay; the latter a powdery or granulated form. Both are most advantageously fulfilled in oil cake meal, which contains substantially all the soil ingredients of the seed from which it was made, except the small amount contained in the hull and furze.

"The high value of cotton seed cake meal as a fertilizer, as indicated by its chemical composition, is amply confirmed by experience." "The fact that it is greatly to be preferred to the raw seed it represents, should render the conversion of the latter into cake meal one of the matter-of-course operations of cotton planting. If you have any seed on hand now or should you have any left after planting, bring them in and exchange them for meal or fertilizers from which, as they contain plant food in a readily available form, you can get immediate returns this season by applying them either before or after planting your cotton. It you have cows to feed, you will find cotton seed meal one of the cheapest and best of stock food. And, Sir J. B. Lawes is authority for saying that one ton of cotton seed meal fed to a steer will produce thirty dollars worth of manure.

SOUTH CAROLINA DIVISION.

Condensed Schedule in Effect May 31, 1891.

Remember that we have three grades of excellent fertilizers for sale from which you can select such as will suit your land and pay you best. "Fertilizers," says W. E. Stone, chemist of the Experiment Station of Tennessee, "to be effective must supply to the soil, and hence to the growing crop, such materials as are required by the demands of the latter and are lacking in the soil.

A fertilizer is after all a supplement to the soil—a deposit to replace the drafts made by the production and removal of crops. To attempt to produce crops on insufficient food is poor economy. To supply materials to the soil which are already there in abundance is a waste. The intelligent use of fertilizers, therefore, requires knowledge on two points: 1. with regard to the needs of the crop to be produced and the ability of the soil to supply these needs; 2. with regard to the composition of fertilizers used and their ability to supplement the deficiencies of the soil."

If we cannot suit you in the grades we have prepared we will make to order a fertilizer containing any relative percentages of the necessary elementsnitrogen, phosphoric acid and potash-that you may desire.

Yours respectfully. THE FAIRFIELD OIL AND FERTILIZER CO. 13. D. Dunn, Manager, will have his office at the mill and will transact all the cash business of the concern. Time sales will be made by W. R. Doty, M. W. Doty, or D. V. Walker, at the store of W. R. Doty & Co.
